GEORGE WALLACE DIES

MRS. TRUMAN'S BROTHER
WAS 71.

He Was Official of County
Highway Department and Election Judge.

George P. Wallace, 71, of 605 West Truman road, Independence, died last night at the Independence hospital, where he had been a patient seven weeks.

Mr. Wallace was the brother of Mrs. Harry S. Truman, 219 North Delaware street, Independence, wife of the former President. His house was adjacent to the Truman house.

He had been ill since December and was in the hospital several times.

He was a lifelong resident of Independence and was a member of the Trinity Episcopal church, 409 North Liberty street, Independence.

Mr. Wallace worked many years in Eastern Jackson County Democratic politics. He served as an election judge for many years.

He retired in May, 1961, as maintenance superintendent for the Jackson County highway department, where he worked 27 years. He was an order clerk for a millwork company in Kansas City before that.

He attended elementary schools in Independence and was graduated in 1912 from the old Independence high school, now William Chrisman high school.

He and his wife, Mrs. Mary S. Wallace of the home, were married 47 years.
